

ROBERT CARTER KITCHEN

The Robert Carter Kitchen is located behind the Robert Carter House, on Palace Green. The house was owned by descendants of Robert “King” Carter of Carter’s Grove. Eighteenth-century kitchens were detached from the main house to prevent the spread of food odors and extreme heat and to reduce the risk of fire.

The first floor has a sitting room with a daybed and trundle and a fireplace. The second floor has a queen bed and private, full bath facilities.
